Fine and Funky Diners and Eateries

With neon piercing a dog-mooned morning sky, cold steel soothing urban heat, and hashbrowned taters wafting their pungent aroma through heavy air, it welcomed me like no other. The diner - the first I had ever entered and the first public eating house I ever felt at peace in. That early school day with yet another unprepared homework assignment served not to improve my scholastic career (nothing could do that!), yet it primed a taste for the uniquely delicious, if not occasionally indelicate, food and atmosphere I relish to this day. You can sip your exotic wines and vichyssoise or chomp laboriously on an undercooked hunk of filet, give me the “Number Two with a side of . . .” and a cup of muddy joe anytime!

While a schoolteacher in Maine in 1988, I painted my first diner - the A1 in Gardiner, which sits precariously on a rusty bridge but which dishes out a tasty meld of diner staples and gourmet succulents. After many customer requests, I added Moody’s famous diner on the Maine coast, New Hampshire’s historical Gilley’s, Vermont’s venerable Miss Bellows Falls, Rhode Island’s memorable Modern, Connecticut’s popular O’Rourke’s and a bevy of Massachusetts beauties: Casey’s in Natick, the Blue Moon in Gardiner and Northampton’s ever-packed Miss Florence and Bluebonnet. These dining car classics were then complemented by my renderings of homemade hotspots like the Maine Diner and Becky’s on the coast, Manchester’s hearty Red Arrow, Vermont’s earthy Dam Diner, and nostalgic Shady Glen in Turners Falls, Massachusetts. Intrigued by the “road,” I then painted some still-popular drive-ins like Brunswick’s Fat Boy and New England’s only surviving A&W in Middlebury, barbecue bastions like Bub’s, Curtis’ and Redbones, and hot dog/hamburg havens like White Hut, Coney Island Hot Dogs, Hot Dog Annie’s, Flo’s, Jack’s, Harry’s and the irrepresible “Lawton’s-by-the-Sea.” It is my ultimate goal to capture every diner and roadside attraction in New England and beyond.

Listed on back are currently available prints in this series, soon to be expanded by many more classic diners and eateries in Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania. Please join me on this culinary art quest by suggesting your own favorite dining spot. If “dine-art” is not your visual pleasure, I am proud to offer many varied-sized, signed and numbered prints of Vermont scenes, Maine scapes and rustic New England subjects. My work also includes privately commissioned watercolor originals and has been featured on WBZ television in Boston, WCAX in Burlington, VT, WWLP in Springfield, MA, WGME in Portland, ME, CBS’ “The Early Show” and the “Phantom Gourmet.” Critical reviews and special images of Diner Don have appeared in The Rutland Herald, The Worcester Telegram, Southern Vermont Adventures, Yankee Magazine, and many others.
